

As an airline crew member I am horrified by the thought of cellphone use during flight. Passengers attention would be misdirected from safety briefings and other important info from the crew not to mention how it would irritate other passengers and potentially create an inflight incident between customers.